

DRAFT — FOR DISCUSSION PURPOSES ONLY

Memorandum of Agreement

Potential collaboration and licensing of hymn content
between LiturgyFlow and Jesuit Music Ministry (JMM)

This document is an initial business discussion draft and is subject to review and revision by the parties and their respective legal advisers.

Open commercial and legal terms are marked: [To be agreed by the parties]

Parties and purpose

LiturgyFlow

Platform Operator
Web-based Catholic Mass presentation tool
Legal entity details: [To be agreed by the parties]

Jesuit Music Ministry (JMM)

Publisher (“JMM”)
Catholic music ministry / publishing partner
Legal entity details: [To be agreed by the parties]

Purpose

Explore collaboration so applicable Publisher hymn content may be used within LiturgyFlow’s Mass presentation-generation workflow for Catholic churches and parish communities.

This draft facilitates discussion. It is not a completed license, partnership, joint venture, or revenue-sharing arrangement.

What LiturgyFlow is

A web-based tool that helps Catholic churches and parish communities prepare Mass presentations and related liturgical media.

For churches

Parish media and music teams preparing worship materials

Mass materials

Presentations that may include readings and hymn lyric slides

Partner context

Discussion focuses on hymn content use — not platform internals

Hymns and content

- Complete Mass presentations require applicable hymn content, including lyrics, when a church selects a hymn.
- Where licensed and authorized, LiturgyFlow may store applicable Publisher hymn content for presentation generation.
- When a hymn is selected, LiturgyFlow may automatically format the lyrics into the Mass PowerPoint (or similar) presentation.
- Specific repertoire, formats, metadata, delivery, and update processes: [To be agreed by the parties].

Scope of permitted use is limited to what the Parties later agree in writing.

Intended use

Intended

Incorporation of Publisher hymn content into church Mass presentation materials prepared through LiturgyFlow (for example, lyric slides in a parish Mass deck).

Not intended

- An independent hymn-lyrics publishing service
- A standalone lyrics-distribution service for general public browsing, download, or redistribution outside the Mass presentation workflow
- Any additional uses (print, streaming, recording, etc.): [To be agreed by the parties], if at all

Copyright ownership

Each Party retains its respective intellectual property rights.

- LiturgyFlow does not claim ownership of third-party copyrighted songs or lyrics.
- The Publisher does not, by discussing this collaboration, claim ownership of LiturgyFlow's platform, trademarks, branding, software, or workflows.
- Ownership of any jointly developed materials, if any: [To be agreed by the parties].
- Any license is a permission to use specified content on agreed terms — not a transfer of ownership.

License — terms not decided in this draft

Subject to a definitive agreement, the Publisher may grant LiturgyFlow an appropriate permission/license for the agreed repertoire. No license is granted by this MOA alone.

Topic	Status
Repertoire (titles, catalogs, editions, languages)	[To be agreed by the parties]
Permitted uses and any restrictions	[To be agreed by the parties]
Territory	[To be agreed by the parties]
Duration / term of license	[To be agreed by the parties]
Exclusivity or non-exclusivity	[To be agreed by the parties]

Also open: exclusivity, sublicensing, delivery/updates, attribution, and other commercial conditions — all [To be agreed by the parties].

Commercial arrangement

We welcome a good-faith conversation about an appropriate commercial arrangement associated with permission to include applicable repertoire — so parishes can prepare complete Mass materials while respecting the Publisher’s rights.

Users

Number / type of churches

Usage model

How content is used

Publisher permission arrangements are separate from LiturgyFlow’s public parish subscription pricing.

This MOA does not establish any fee, royalty, or payment obligation.

Specific commercial terms (including any fees, royalties, or other consideration, if applicable): [To be agreed by the parties].

Reporting and confidentiality

Reporting

- LiturgyFlow may provide reasonable usage reports on the licensed repertoire
- Form and frequency: [To be agreed by the parties]
- Not intended to require LiturgyFlow's complete financial records
- Financial reporting / audit rights: [To be agreed by the parties]

Confidentiality

- Covers non-public business, technical, and commercial information exchanged
- Use only for evaluating and negotiating the collaboration
- Standard public-knowledge / independent-development carve-outs
- No requirement to disclose proprietary platform details beyond what LiturgyFlow chooses to share
- Duration and remedies: [To be agreed by the parties]

Term, termination, and limitations

Term and termination

Duration, renewal, and termination terms: [To be agreed by the parties]. Until a definitive agreement is signed, either Party may discontinue discussions at any time.

Limitations

- Applies only to the repertoire and uses expressly agreed by the Parties
- No broader rights are implied
- Governing law, dispute resolution, indemnity, liability, and warranties: [To be agreed by the parties]

Signatures — discussion acknowledgment

Signatures confirm willingness to continue good-faith discussions. They do not, by themselves, create a binding license or commercial payment obligation unless a definitive written agreement expressly states otherwise.
